

Feast of the Epiphany

Three kings visit Jesus

INTRODUCTION

The three wise men were not Jews. They came from lands far to the East and were astrologers who used the stars to guide them on their journeys. They also knew of the prophecies of an infant king to be born, a savior. Through them, his arrival was announced to the world. Jesus, the saving Lord, has come not just for the Jews but for all people.

The glory of God is shining on you! All other people will live in the shadows, but you will always have God's light to chase away the darkness. Other people will look at you and see the light of God's love shining out. (Isaiah 60:1-3)

GOSPEL (MATTHEW 2:1-12)

Jesus was born in Bethlehem, a small town in Judea when King Herod ruled the land. Three wise men from the East had been following a bright star. They went to Jerusalem and asked King Herod where they could find the newborn King of the Jews that they had come to adore.

Herod was greatly troubled because he didn't want anyone else to be king, so he sent for his advisors. "Tell me where this child, the so-called king, will be born," he asked. "It has been foretold by the prophets that he will be born in Bethlehem," they answered.

King Herod sent for the wise men and said to them, "I will allow you to search for this child, but you must come back and tell me where to find him. Then I, too, can go and honor him."

The wise men set off again on their journey. They followed the bright star until it appeared to stop over a stable. There they found Mary and Joseph with the baby Jesus. They were filled with wonder and joy, and fell to their knees to worship him. They gave him gifts fit for a king, of gold, frankincense, and myrrh. An angel warned them in a dream not to return to Herod's palace, so they went back to their own countries a different way.

DISCUSSION

Who were the three wise men and where did they come from? They were believed to be three kings called Melchior, Caspar, and Balthazar. They came from countries to the East, although no one knows exactly where, and are supposed to represent all the peoples of the world.

What gifts did they bring to Jesus?

—Melchior brought gold, a precious and expensive metal, often worn by kings. This was a sign of Christ's royalty.

—Caspar brought frankincense, a type of incense which gives off a perfumed, pleasant-smelling smoke. This was a sign of Christ's holiness.

—Balthazar brought myrrh, a perfumed ointment used to prepare the dead for their burial. This was a sign of Christ's humanity, and his suffering and death.

What warning did the angel give to the wise men?

ACTIVITY

Make several copies of the model of a king and paste onto thin cardboard. The children can then cut out and decorate the three kings and their crowns and gifts. Assemble the kings and mount them on the standup camels.
